

From: root@wt6.usdoj.gov@inetgw
To: Microsoft ATR,antitrust@ftc.gov@inetgw,Ralph@essen...
Date: 11/9/01 2:18pm
Subject: Microsoft Hegemony: Dreams Of Plundering

CC: letters@latimes.com@inetgw,letters@sjmercury.com@i...

Re: Microsoft: Find a Real Fix

- > One key provision, for example, supposedly
- > requires Microsoft to disclose coding...
- > Read the fine print, however, and you'll
- > discover that Microsoft only has to disclose....

It's not necessary to list the many fatal loopholes to see the conservative intent. To the conservative, competition, consumer rights, and the integrity of the system are all trivial luxuries not worth the fight. Rather for them, preserving the USA's economic hegemony on the world stage, and cultivating Wall Street superstars, are the only substantial goals.

The REAL fix for competition, consumer rights, and the integrity of the system, is releasing the commodity OS into the public domain where it belongs.

"Conservatives preserve throne which I plunder and dream of plundering it themselves one day, Dallah willing..."